Freighter Penthames Sunk in Valencia Harbor—Japanese Planes Bomb Hankow and Canton

BARCELONA, Spain—(AP)—At least 430 persons were killed Tuesday in an insurgent air raid on the town of Granollers, 16 miles north of Barcelona. Authorities believed 100 more bodies were buried in the ruins.

The British freighter Penthames was bombed and sunk in an air raid on Valencia harbor Tuesday morning. No lives were lost.

The Penthames was the third British ship sunk recently at Valencia.

Committee Urges Seizing Wealth in Time of War

Senate Group Would Take 10% of $1,000, 75% of 100 Million

FIREWORKS START

War, Navy and Treasury Department Prefer Voluntary Financing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate military affairs committee made public Monday a report approving legislation which would compel everyone having net wealth of $1,000 or more to lend money to the government in wartime.

Overriding objections raised by the War, Navy and Treasury departments, the committee recommended the measure to the senate with this statement: "The surest way to prevent this country from being thrown into a future war is to draft money as well as manpower."

"When the financial tycoons and large manufacturers realize that they will have to lend the bulk of the money necessary to finance the next war at an extremely low rate of interest, they will hesitate to use the forces at their command to propagandize the general public into a war hysteria."

Each Person's Wealth

Senator Lee (Dem., Okla.) is the author of the legislation which provides that in event of a war of sufficient moment to require an increase in the military establishment by the drafting of manpower, the president would order a census of the wealth of the nation, requiring each citizen to register and file a sworn financial statement of his total net worth.

The government would determine the amount of money necessary to meet the emergency, and would issue a like amount of bonds in various denominations. Each person having net wealth of $1,000 or more would be required to buy the bonds, in amounts determined by a schedule included in the bill. The bonds would run for 50 years and bear interest not to exceed one per cent. The income from them would not be tax exempt, and the government could pay them off at will.

The schedule of bond purchases which would be required ranges from 5 per cent of net wealth from $1,000 to $10,000 to 75 per cent of net wealth above $100,000.

U. S. Publicity for Robison Window

Coffee's 1937 Cotton Week Window Gets National Recognition

"Large city stores certainly have no monopoly on striking, original and resultful merchandising, advertising and display plans," says the May issue of the Dry Goods Journal, which reproduces Geo. W. Robison & Co.'s "Cotton Week" advertisement of a year ago.

The national organ of the dry goods trade reprinted both the full-page advertisement and a "close-up" of "The Star's photograph of Robison's Cotton Week window."

Robison's window, which received wide attention locally at the time, and now is given national recognition, was arranged by Clyde Coffee, window decorator.

The Dry Goods Journal said: "If you are inclined to think that large city stores are the only ones who do a big job during National Cotton Week, think again; for there are many, many examples proving that stores in medium-sized and smaller cities and towns do just as well."

"You can hardly consider a better example than the Geo. W. Robison & Co. store in Hope, Ark., where the population is approximately 6,000."

"This store used big space in the local newspaper. Wash flocks, a well-known brand of piece goods, sheets and towels were a few of the items featured."

"This firm presented a window display that was exceptionally striking. In this trim, on the background was a large picture of negroes picking cotton."

"For in the window portrayed negro kiddies and also an elderly colored man carrying a basket of cotton. 'Fabrics were draped from top to bottom on either side of the display and much merchandise was shown, of course.'"

Ex-Spa Officers Plead Not Guilty

Declare Themselves Innocent of Charge Harboring Karpis

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Six Hot Springs residents pleaded innocent in federal court Tuesday to charges of having harbored Alvin Karpis, former public enemy No. 1, at the resort in 1935 and 1936.

The seven: H. Bert (Dutch) Akers, former chief of detectives; Joseph Wakelin, former chief of police; Cecil Brock, former police lieutenant; John Stover, airport manager; Mrs. A. C. Dyer, boat landing operator; Morris Loftis, Dyer landing caretaker; Mrs. Grace Goldstein and Connie Morris, also indicated on the Karpis harboring charges, were not arraigned.

No date for the trials was set immediately.

CRANIUM CRACKER

The pyramids of Mexico have square bases, flat tops, and the sides are built in the form of steps. An exploring party once came across one of these pyramids which measured 80 feet on each side of the base. There were three large steps to the top. These steps were each 10 feet high and measured 10 feet back from the outside edge. How much flat surface was exposed altogether on the tops of them all?

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER I

I WANT to tell this story. It is a love story, but is not about a girl and a man and the conflict between them until they finally give up and try to pull together, which most love stories are. This is about love itself, and that makes it an unusual story.

What is love? You'd think anybody would know, with all the talk there is about it. They don't. I think I have an idea, and that is why I tell this story.

It begins with Joe Murray, a young man, a very young man just starting to work and spending his first earned money on the girls. I guess that was the main reason why Joe went to work as soon as he could; that and the simple fact that every young man in Joe's walk of life does the same. Joe was born on Simplan street on the south side of the city in a fourth-floor railroad tenement flat that gave shelter to the elder Murrys and seven children for many years. As a little fellow Joe played with the little girls on the other landings; as a boy he tormented the waspish young girls on the block; as a young buck after his voice changed and he began to shave he investigated the possibilities in the next block and the one beyond. So when he became a young man, rather handsome with his 19 years, a lithe, smooth dancer and a smart, glib talker

$10,000 Ransom Is Paid to Kidnapers

Florida Father Tosses Bills in Roadway—Child Still Missing

PRINCETON, Fla.—(AP)—A packet of $10,000 in small bills was dropped in a country road Tuesday in an effort to ransom James Cash, Jr., 5, from kidnapers who seized him Saturday night.

The child's father tossed the currency from his car on a solitary drive before dawn at the sight of blinking headlights and a hail from the side of the road—signals that had been specified in a ransom note.

He returned in high hopes of regaining his son by noon, but his hopes passed apparently without sign from the abductors, grave fear was felt for the lad's safety.

Football Talk Is Given by Hammons

Kiwanis Club Also Hears Address by Attorney Lawson Glover

"The greatest benefit football teaches is to play the game fair," Coach Foy Hammons told the Hope Kiwanis club at its luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at Hotel Barlow.

"A lot of people in Hope want a championship team—but to develop a champion you must have 11 perfect cogs—a combination that plays with co-ordination—11 men willing to sacrifice personal glory for the benefit of the team."

"Prospects look good for a winning team this year—but I believe the season of 1939 will be our best shot at the state title."

"It takes more than physical strength to play football—and I want to drive this point home by recalling the 1925 team at Pine Bluff High School."

"The starting lineup of that team averaged 160 pounds. My two heaviest men were the tackles. Both weighed 180 pounds. My lightest man was the quarterback, 122 pounds."

"As far back as 1923 I looked forward to that 1925 team. I knew I would have a good team and so scheduled the toughest competition in the country. We played two games each week, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons."

"We won 16 games that year—all that we played and climaxed the season by taking on Dayton, Ohio, a high school team that was laying claim to the national title."

"Dayton came to Pine Bluff December 14, 1925, with the intention of beating us and claiming the national title. Dayton had a team that averaged close to 190 pounds—against our 160 pound team. The game ended, however, in favor of Pine Bluff, 61 to 0."

"You can see that it takes something besides big men with physical strength to play football. Athletes that will sacrifice personal glory, boys that will train hard, and boys that work together for co-ordination will develop into a unit that makes the best team," Hammons declared.

At the outset of his speech, Coach Hammons outlined the history of football, beginning as far back as 1314 when King Edward II of England issued a proclamation against the game because too many young men were being injured.

He traced the progress of the game down to 1880 when colleges and universities of the United States began playing football. Since then the game has grown by leaps and bounds and last year some 40,000,000 persons witnessed games in the United States, Hammons said.

Lawson Glover, young Hope attorney, also appeared on the program and delivered a memorial address that was enjoyed by the club.

He said the greatest tribute that can be paid to the nation's war dead is to prevent future wars. He outlined three measures to prevent war as follows:

1. A large army and navy in order

Revolt' Is Ended, Mexico Declares

Cedillo Still at Large, But His Following Is Dispersed

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas Monday night declared the rebellion of ex-General Saturnino Cedillo and his vast following had been stamped out by federal troops in San Luis Potosi state.

"The pacification of San Luis is an accomplished fact," said the executive at the headquarters he set up here May 18. Though Cedillo was still at large, Cardenas said that only small bands of rebels remained in the Central Mexican hills and they "constitute no military problem for the government."

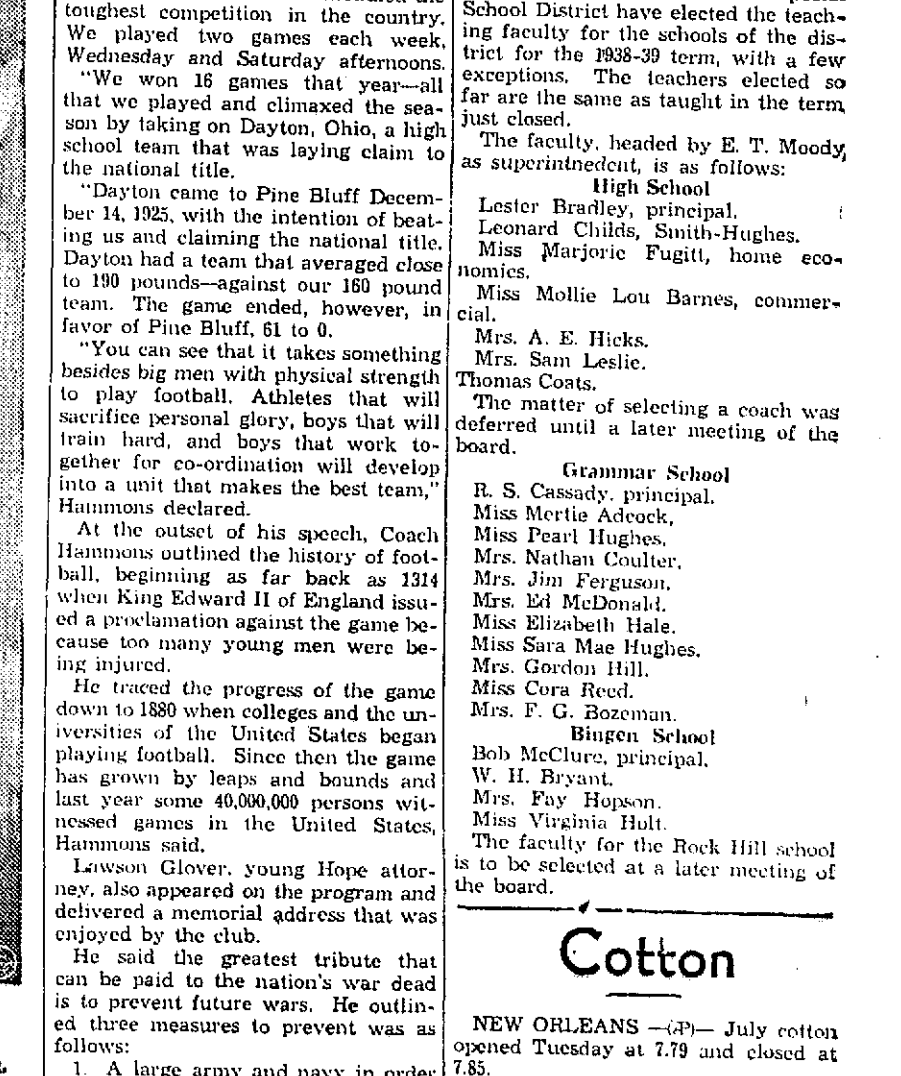

When and if Cedillo is captured, the president said, Mexican laws would take care of his former minister of agriculture. Persons close to the president said he would not ask the death penalty for Cedillo, former governor and "strong man" of San Luis Potosi.

A government cavalry unit, which last week nearly captured Cedillo, was in the hills above his ranch and had found some of the rebel chieftain's belongings, including a small printing plant.

Not every combat brings one victory. Not every triumph swings in right accord. Sometimes defeat grows into mastery and makes a lord.

No sudden sweep can prove enduring sway. But plodding upward builds the super-man. As blood-stained footprints on the grades display; This is God's plan.

"Lasses" White to Be Here Thursday

Big Tent Show Has 15 Vaudeville Acts—Locate on Old 67

The Drama, musical comedy and light oper are now seldom seen and heard in the modern-day forms of entertainment. Al G. Fields, Neal O'Brien, Honey Boy Evans and many other famous black face minstrel celebrities have also passed to their reward but not from the public memory. Swing music is "Tops" with any theater audience; the "Big Apple" and "Trucking" have taken hold of the popular fancy; the day of the snappy minstrel show has always been here and is still the most popular entertainment of the average family seeking an evening's amusement.

Among the names made famous by the burnt cork performance is that of Lassies White whose rise to a point of eminence and world-wide recognition is known in every city and hamlet throughout the nation. His position today is that of a leader in the reviving popularity of minstrelsy.

Lasses White has appeared with such celebrities as Al G. Fields, Neal O'Brien, Honey Boy Evans and others. It was while taking a leading part with the Honey Boy Evans minstrels that he attained the highest peak of stardom. This sudden rise reads almost like fiction and proves that skill and ability is bound to win.

It was while showing in Mobile, Alabama, that Honey Boy Evans was suddenly taken ill. Thus the show was robbed of its headliner and greatest star. But according to the tradition of the show business it was necessary that the "Show must go on" and even Honey Boy Evans must be substituted for.

This was the opportunity Lassies White was waiting for and so capably did he fill the shoes of Honey Boy Evans that he was at once recognized as a star of the first magnitude.

Lasses White has since become famous in radio, on the screen and has also appeared in the leading cities of this and other nations and is today upholding the traditions of the black face minstrel, always welcome in any community and who never failed to draw large crowds of entertainment seekers.

Lasses White, in person, will appear in this city on heading the "Lasses White All Star Minstrel Show" which brings with it other celebrities known throughout the nation as singers, dancers and comedians who never fail to provide an evening of entertainment not soon to be forgotten. The big tent will be located on the circus lot on Old Highway 67 and is certain to be the center of interest on that date.

New Dealers Seek Showdown in 1940

Ignore 1938 Elections, Even Welcoming Decline in Congress

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Step by step the Democratic party that in 1936 swept the nation on a scale never before recorded in American political history is moving toward an internal crisis in 1940 no less dramatic than the policy rift in Republican ranks in 1912 that ended 16 years of Republican sway in Washington.

That he both expects and welcomes a party showdown then on the social and economic policies that make up the New Deal is indicated by every step President Roosevelt has taken or countenanced in the way of administrative intervention in state primaries.

For months, administration political aides—from harmony-seeking Postmaster General Farley down to the most bitter New Deal advocate of diehard combat with party foes—have been dismissing the 1938 campaigning as merely a prelude to 1940.

Major interest in the 1938 contests lies in 1940 signs. Administration strategists take far greater interest in what the primary may mean in connection with the New Deal's possession of the party machinery than in its effect on the holding of the present number of congressional seats.

While they are not disposed to risk loss of working majorities, New Dealers consider the topheavy, discord-inviting majorities in both House and Senate more an embarrassment than an aid to presidential leadership.

A considerable loss of seats to the Republicans would cause few regrets at the White House if it could exercise some for mop selection regarding the Democrats kept in office. And so far as senatorial primaries are concerned, a process of administration selection is obviously at work, and

Tax Exemption of Industry Sought

Exemption for 10 Years Asked by Initiated Amendment Proposal

LITTLE ROCK—A petition to initiate a proposed constitutional amendment which would permit exemption of new industries or additions to existing industries from state taxation for a period not longer than 10 years was drafted by the State Agricultural and Industrial Commission here Monday.

The amendment would authorize the governor an (the commission, or the agency created to assist in the industrial development of the state, to contract with owners of new industries to be located within the state or with owners making additions to present industries, for tax exemption upon terms deemed to be the best interests of the state.

The action was taken to enable Arkansas to meet competition with neighboring states, members of the commission said. Arkansas has lost new industries representing millions of dollars in investments in recent years, Nathaniel Dyke Jr. of Little Rock, chairman of the commission, said.

"The commission is calling on all Chambers of Commerce and interested organizations for the fullest co-operation in the circulation of petitions to obtain the signatures of the 20,000 qualified electors required for the proposal to be submitted in the general election November 8," Mr. Dyke said.

Spring Comes to U. of Texas

AUSTIN, Texas—(AP)—Spring note in the University of Texas daily newspaper:

"Students are invited to pick pansies all day Tuesday.
"The pansies will be dug out and petunias planted in their place Wednesday."
"O. J. Herrington Head Gardener."

as obviously is increasing bitterness of the party quarrel. It is helping along materially toward a 1940 party crisis.

Whatever parallels there may be between the liberal-conservative Republican break-up of 1912 and the possible Democratic split of 1940, President Roosevelt has a distinct advantage over his distant kinsman, Theodore Roosevelt, who led his Bull Moose followers out of a Republican national convention to form the Progressive party. Republican Old Guard organizationists controlled that convention through federal and sufficient state power to "steam roller" it into renomination of President Taft.

It is clear that the administration is playing in this year's Democratic primaries for 1940 convention control to make the anti-New Dealers take the walk, if there is to be a bolt. Behind the scenes of every Democratic primary contest to date that is the real stake, direct or indirect. It tends to make control of the 1940 Democratic convention and of the party organization more important in some New Dealer eyes than net Democratic gains or losses in congressional or state elections next November.

Musical Comedy on Saenger Stage

Mrs. Ogburn's Dancing Pupils to Be Presented Friday Night

"Fiesta," Spanish musical comedy, will be presented on the stage of the Saenger theater one night only, Friday, June 3, at 8 o'clock by the Ogburn School of Dancing.

The leading dramatic roles, those of a young American sportsman and a Spanish Civil Guard, will be portrayed by Frederic Taylor and Richard Fenwick, local high school students.

There will be many authentic and colorful Spanish dances, among them an exhibition tango danced by Mary Ann Lile and Frederick Taylor. Ten pupils will appear in the Gypsy ballet which features Mary Ann Lile in a solo. Miss Lile will also appear in a novelty drum dance that climaxes the closing number, a military ensemble.

A popular comic feature will be the bullfight in which Frederic Taylor battles with a life-sized bull in the best traditions of the arena.

A 12-piece orchestra will furnish

THEATERS

At the New
"Forbidden Valley," the Universal picture which opens today at the New theater, rates as high. Fast action, brilliant photography, a strong, dramatic story climaxed by a wild horse stampede make it stirring entertainment. Every reel of it is packed with thrills.

Noah Beery Jr., in the leading role, plays a frontier youth whose dad has been unjustly accused of a killing. They hide in the hills far from civilization. Noah doesn't see a girl till he reaches young manhood. Then he meets Frances Robinson and dramatic events begin to happen.

Acting is fine throughout the picture. Young Beery and Miss Robinson turn in excellent performances. Fred Kohler Sr., one of the screen's most eminent villains is at his menacing best. Another great job of acting is done by that veteran character man, Samuel S. Hinds. Robert Barrat, Henry Hunter and Alonzo Price play important roles to the hilt, while Stanley Andrews, Spencer Charters, Soledad Jimenez, Margaret McWade, John Ridgely and James Forman are very good in supporting parts. Direction of Wyndham Gittens is grand.

A word must be added about the scenic splendor of the picture. Some of the finest shots of wild mountain grandeur, seen on the screen in months are in this film.

The second feature on this two-day double feature program stars Joan Bennett and Henry Fonda who score in "I Met My Love" and neither star has been seen to better advantage than in this screen adaptation of Aileen Corlis' novel "Summer Lightning."

LUSK, Wyo.—(AP)—Lusk claims the distinction of being the only county seat in the United States to receive air mail service from every postoffice in the county. It happened during the recent air mail week program.

"YOU SHOULD SEE WHAT I SAW WHERE CAMELS ARE MADE" BY Eddie Cantor

AMERICA'S LAUGH KING, Eddie Cantor, has his serious moments too. His uproarious "Cantor's Camel Caravan" broadcasts (every Monday night—Columbia Network) command respect because of his sincerity in his work. And Eddie's truly sincere in his self-termed job of "Camel Radio Salesman." Says salesman Cantor, "Everything isn't too much to know about a cigarette like Camel." Eddie took a trip to Winston-Salem, home of Camel cigarettes. Here is what he saw—

"HELLO EVERYBODY! Here I am in Camel town. Am I impressed? Everybody looks so happy—so enthusiastic! You'd think each one of the 13,000 Reynolds workers owned the plant. And say, thousands of them are owners—they've got Camel stock! And they really get fun out of making Camels. Maybe that's a reason people get so much fun out of smoking Camels. Wouldn't you like to work here? Nobody's been laid off by Camels in 12 years. When that old whistle blows, all the officials in this place are right on the job too. And they have only one job—making

Camels so good that more people smoke them than any other cigarette. Yes—that's everybody's job at Camels. Imagine a place like this Camel plant. They had social security here years ago. When you're sick, you get a nice healthy check each week. If you die, your family is protected

See why tobacco planters, men who grow and know tobacco, make Camel their cigarette. You'll say, as millions of smokers do, "Camels agree with me." Camel is America's largest-selling cigarette!

Have a Camel! See for yourself why there's more real pleasure—more out-and-out enjoyment—in Camel's matchless blend of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic.

by insurance. When you reach retirement under the Reynolds plan, the company sends you a check each month for the rest of your life. It's certainly great to be a Camel worker! COSTLIER TOBACCO? Has Camel got costlier tobaccos? Listen—I'm looking at it, folks, in the picture above. And there's a hundred million dollars' worth of it right here at Winston-Salem. That tobacco looks so g-o-o-d, smells so g-o-o-d. If you're smoking a Camel, you're smoking some of those finer, costlier tobaccos right now. How do they keep this tobacco 'just right,' the way you like it? They make the workroom 'weather' themselves with a wonderful air-conditioning plant. And, besides, they actually wash the air every few minutes. Do the Camel folks like to work in that place! In the last picture, I'm watching those costlier Camel tobaccos going into finished cigarettes—millions and billions of them. 'There's a lot of pleasure coming out of those machines,' I said to my people. 'IN FACT, YOU CAMEL PEOPLE AND I ARE REALLY IN THE SAME BUSINESS—MAKING MORE PLEASURE FOR MORE PEOPLE!'

Don't miss Cantor's Camel Caravan Monday nights!

How Washington Met His Bride

ONLY by the merest chance did George Washington meet the charming widow, Martha Custis, on a sunny afternoon in May, 1758, and thereby swiftly make the decision that was to change his entire life.

The young colonel was on his way to Williamsburg, Va., to consult with the Council over preparations for the expedition against Fort Duquesne, in which he would command the Virginia troops. At a ferry over the Pamunkey river, Washington met a Major Chamberlayne, who hospitably pressed him to tarry a day or so at his home. Washington demurred but finally stayed to dinner, met the wealthy young widow, Martha Custis.

When he left next morning, Washington begged her permission to let him visit her at her home. And she gave it. So was romance born for the country's first President and first lady. They were married Jan. 6, 1759. Martha Washington is shown here on the new 1½ brown value of the regular series, reproduced slightly more than one and one-half times actual size.

Black Cats Bring Speed Demon Luck

Indianapolis Race Winner Receives Approximately $38,000

INDIANAPOLIS.—(AP)—Husky, good-natured Floyd Roberts, 38, of Van Nuys, Cal., 196-pound veteran race driver who believes black cats are good omens, kept Monday the last half of a promise he made two months ago on the West Coast.

The last half of that promise to his family and friends was: "I'll win the race this time. My luck always has run in cycles. For three years I didn't do so good at the speedway, but this year I'll really cash in." Roberts did more than win the 500-mile race here Monday. He set a new all-time record of 117.200 miles an hour for the gruelling grind.

The first half of the promise was: "I'll sit on the pole." He did just that a week ago Saturday, winning the pole position inside spot on the front row—by making the fastest qualifying time on the opening day of the 25-mile tests.

Weeps for Joy
Crying from sheer joy, Roberts said as he hustled into the winner's enclosure: "I'm not a bit tired. I could go the 500 again. My car performed wonderfully. I coasted the last 50 laps. I knew I was going to win."

A few seconds before Roberts started the race Monday morning, he told a newspaperman, "I know it's in the bag. Before I came out here two black cats crossed my path."

His wife and two children—a boy, eight, and a girl, 10—were listening on the radio in Van Nuys.

This was Roberts' fourth start in 500-mile competition. In 1935 he finished fourth. He did not finish in 1936 and finished 13th last year. He is an aviation engineer employed by a Pacific coast airplane factory. He is a devout churchgoer.

The Cat Situation
Roberts has been strong for black cats ever since one crossed his path the night before a dirt track race in North Dakota in 1917. He won that race.

"In 1926," he recalled, "I broke a losing streak after another black cat came along. Then came 1934 at Los Angeles. I had lost eight straight races to Rex Mays on the Ascot speedway and actually walked the streets all night hoping a black cat would come along. One did and the next day I beat Mays."

"I'm going to kiss the first black cat I see tonight."

Roberts was born at Dickey, N. D., and started his racing career on dirt tracks in his native state.

Spectator Killed
The race was marred by the killing of Everett Spence, 33, probation officer of Terre Haute, Ind. Spence, standing on a truck with a party of 10 others, was struck by a wheel which flew off a careening race car piloted by Emil Andres of Chicago. Spence was dead when taken to a hospital.

Andres' car, traveling at a terrific speed, hit the southeast lower retaining wall, turned over three times and came to rest in the infield. The right front wheel flew high in the air and traveled 100 feet before it struck Spence. It was the 34th death in a quarter of a century of racing at this famous course and was the second fatality to a spectator.

Andres, taken to a hospital, was suffering from a crushed chest, possible brain concussion and a broken nose. At almost the same time as the Andres accident, Ira Hall, veteran driver from Terre Haute, Ind., hit a wall for the second time in the race. His car was not badly damaged and he escaped injury.

Race Worth $38,000
Roberts, who made his first appearance in an Indianapolis race in 1934, won about $38,000 as the result of his victory. He received $20,000 as first prize and the balance in lap and accessory prizes. The crowd was under 150,000 attendance of a year ago.

Finishing five miles back of Roberts came Shaw. Chet Miller of Detroit trailed Shaw by two and a half miles. Miller, hanging close upon Roberts in the closing miles of the race, was forced to stop on his next to last lap to take on fuel when he was almost virtually assured of second place. That 60-second stop probably cost him $5,000, the difference between second and third prizes. Ted Horn of Los Angeles finished fourth, nearly 30 miles back of Roberts. The balance of the field was strung out for miles.

Lou Gehrig as he appeared at bat when he first reported to the New York Yankees upon the close of the school term at Columbia University in June, 1923. Farmed to Hartford for two seasons, Gehrig returned to launch his amazing record for consecutive games, beginning June 1, 1925. Inset, the Iron Man cools off after another hard day's work as he heads for his 2000th straight skinnish.

Lou Gehrig, Iron Man of Baseball, Carries On in Bandages, Plasters

Story Behind Amazing Record of Consecutive Games Is Told—No Common Ailment Will Get Lou Out of Game

First of three stories on Iron Man Lou Gehrig.

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

New York Yankees were going so badly on June 1, 1925, that the late Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, called Pipp, and ordered Lou Gehrig to first base.

Gehrig, the Iron Man, has been there ever since.

He is about to play his 2000th consecutive game, which is only one of a number of amazing records compiled by the remarkable product of the sidewalks of New York.

Gehrig has suffered from lambo during his long streak of steady duty. He has had rheumatic trouble which seems chronic. He has had broken fingers. . . . had one last season. He has had broken toes. He has played in bandages and splints. . . . plasters and braces.

In 1932, Gehrig was hit on the head by Earl Whitehill in Detroit. It was a close call, but O'Rawhide came back strong the next day.

Palm for Archery

Beneath gracefully dipping palm fronds, pretty and shapely Sarah Hall bends a trusty bow, at one of the many archery ranges in Miami, Fla.

In 1935, Gehrig was hit on the head by Ray White in a Norfolk exhibition. He was rushed to a hospital. . . . reported dead.

But the next day the Washington Nationals discovered that the report was grossly exaggerated. Gehrig belted out three straight tripples, only to lose credit for them when a tornado blew up in the fourth inning. For the Nats, it was a tornado in time.

Back Trouble Boils Up Again
Latest challenge to the perpetuation of Gehrig's consecutive game streak finds him snorting defiance at a lame back, and tut-tutting the suggestion that his precious record is about to be smashed. He says he will lick this latest attack of lambo, or whatever it is, and go right on playing. Just as he beat other backaches and headaches and went right on playing.

After all, the Yankees wouldn't be the Yankees unless Gehrig went right on playing.

Indeed, Two-Gun Lou grows a mite touchy about what he suspects are reflections on his durability. He belittles the recurrence of the back ailment from which he has suffered for years.

"The less said of it the better," asserts O'Rawhide, scratching around the fringes of a couple of kidney plasters.

Nevertheless, it can't be kept a secret that the ailment which, in 1934, came closest to ending his streak, bobbed up swiftly and without warning in Cleveland to strike him hard again. He had to quit in the sixth inning and submit to Doc Painter's ministrations.

No Common Ailment Will Get Lou Out
Attack gripped Gehrig just after he had poled a mighty blow to right center on which he made second base with painful and labored effort. Hobbling to first base rounding the bag, and lumbering along to second, Lou appeared to have pulled a charley horse. He went bent over and gripping his right thigh as he ran.

With dogged determination, he finished the inning, scored on Bill Knickerbocker's single, and then quit in favor of Babe Dahlgren.

Later Lou explained that he had to hold his thigh while running to keep from falling. When he gets these attacks they take his breath away, and he has sharp pains through the small of his back. He can't straighten up, but he nuzzles when anyone suggests that he has lambo, or something else that is chronic.

Just the same, the opinion of those closest to the situation is that Lou Gehrig has some sort of an ailment which is different from any common cold.

And it will take an uncommon ailment to get him out of the lineup. He's more proud of that endurance record than any of his remarkable batting feats.

NEXT: What has kept Lou Gehrig going.

Self-Help Patterns

"I can dress myself" is the proud boast of 42 children in Hempstead county whose home demonstration club mothers are using self-help patterns in making their clothing.

Little Martha Osborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Osborn of the Ozan-St. Paul club is an example of a child wearing self-help garments.

It is only within recent years that people have realized that clothing has a decided effect on the health and habit formation of the child, declares Miss Sue Marshall, extension specialist in clothing and household arts, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. "The proper kind of clothes encourages initiative and self-reliance."

Clothes that are designed to make it easy for the child to dress and undress with little or no help are desirable. Long front closing, plaques, slide fasteners and medium sized buttons help. A simulated belt instead of a separate belt is easier for the little boy to handle.

Back in the days when mother was a little girl she was forced to wear a sun bonnet and gloves to protect her skin from the sun. Now, little daughter or son run around in the briefest of sunsuits so their bodies can absorb ultra-violet rays from the sunlight as an aid in preventing rickets.

The small child is very active and busy most of the time so his or her clothing must be planned to meet these needs. Miss Sue Marshall points out. This means that garments must be long enough in the crotch to permit stooping, squatting or bending; they must be loose to permit reaching up or swinging the arms. Not only must they be roomy, but they must be fast color to sun and washing, pre-shrunk to insure good fit, and well made in order to stand up under hard wear and frequent washings. A young child's skin is very sensitive, so all seams that come in contact with the body should be finished smoothly.

If garments are well made, plans should be made for enlarging them as the child grows older. Hems 6 to 8 inches wide are not too much for little girls' dresses to allow for letting the hems out as the little Miss grows older. An allowance of 5 or 6 inches below the button line allows material for lengthening the suit and also keeps the tail from working out. Long tabs on the shoulders of sunsuits make them easy to lengthen or shorten. Clothes that are too large hamper a child in its play and are just as injurious to the child as are clothes that are too small. Ragged sleeves and small tucks or gathers allow extra fullness for comfort without making the garment seem large.

Cotton materials answer many of the requirements for children's clothes. They are cheap, easy to launder, flexible, soft, smooth, and light weight. Miss Marshall points out. Where extra warmth is needed, light weight woollens can be used.

Archaeologists in Asia have found what they think were the first tools. That makes how many million years that plumbars have been looking for them?

Sieve Forsyth and Mary Jane Richardson demonstrate how to float without aid.

DOCTORS BALL GAMES

Dick Coffman

Fine relief pitching by Dick Coffman, shown winding up, is one reason why the New York Giants still lead the National League parade despite their recent string of scoreless innings. Coffman saved the first game of the important series with Chicago at the Polo Grounds for Cliff Melton in the 12th inning by retiring three Cubs with the bases full. The ball was not hit out of the infield.

The PAYOFF

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

Joe McCarthy still believes Detroit is the club New York will have to beat in the American League.

The manager of the Yankees rates the horped-up Cleveland Indians ahead of the Boston Red Sox.

"Detroit," says McCarthy, "has too much power to stay down where it is. That wallop is going to assert itself before long, and it will be the Tigers we will be battling once we get going and the race gets hot."

"The Indians have good pitching. They are going to be tough, too. Bob Feller is better than he was. He looks like a fine pitcher now. And behind him, Cleveland has a capable pitching staff and a husky punch."

"Bob Grove is off to a great start for Boston, but it isn't in the books for him to go on that way."

"Wait until the weather gets warmer, and the heat begins to take things out of him—when he is going to need more rest."

"Where will the Red Sox be for pitchers then? They haven't got the fellows behind him to keep up. I don't think they'll be as dangerous when the race settles down as they appear now."

"The same thing goes for Washington. McCarthy contends that no club has had a real opportunity to show to advantage. Least of all the Ruppert Rifles, who had nine double-headers piled up on them before they knew it. They grew tired of sitting around on their western trip."

"We haven't had a chance to start yet," explains Marce Joe.

"If our pitchers only get the chance to get straightened out quickly, you'll see that we get better pitching, and more of it, than we have ever had."

"But everybody has needed work. The weather has stymied us."

It also gave Doc Painter an opportunity to doctor up some of the Yankee patients, not the least of whom has been Catcher Bill Dickey, who has just shaken off an attack of flu.

A burstic condition in his left forearm, which makes it almost impossible for him to throw an authoritative hook, prompts Pete Sarron to call it a spring career after 15 years.

Sarron, who is 30, has plenty. He must be worth $75,000. He also admits that he has had plenty.

He had little besides courage and ruggedness, but got to be world featherweight champion. He rose from the status of a destitute Birmingham newsboy. He saw the coked world. And his faculties are intact.

Sarron's ailment is similar to the one that harasses Dizzy Dean, save that in the pitcher's case the trouble

Little Rock Wins Third From Chicks

Travelers Bunch Six Hits for 5 to 2 Victory Over Tribe

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Little Rock's Travelers bunched six hits Monday, coupled with four Memphis errors to make it three straight wins over the Chicks. The score was 5-2.

The visitors pushed two runs across in the opening frame, Hoyer scoring after getting a pass, going to third on Woodard's single which Schalk beat out an infield hit.

After the Chicks knotted the count in the second, the Travelers converted misplays by Pearson and Bates and Hoyer's single of go ahead by one run in the fourth.

NOTICE OF COUNTY SEAT ELECTION

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY, ARKANSAS

IN THE MATTER OF THE CHANGE OR REMOVAL OF THE COUNTY SEAT OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY, ARKANSAS

ORDER

Now on this 5th day of May, 1938, the same being a regular adjourned day of the regular term of the County Court of Hempstead County, Arkansas, there comes on to be heard the petition for change or removal of the County Seat of Hempstead County, Arkansas, from Washington, Arkansas, to Hope, Arkansas, in said County, and more than one-third of the qualified voters in said county having joined in said petition, and said petition having been heretofore duly filed in this Court.

And the Court being well and sufficiently advised as to the law and the facts, does proceed to consider the matter and hear the said petition, and from the check of the signatures to the petition against the list of qualified voters of the County, and from the records and papers introduced, and from the oral testimony heard, the Court does find:

THAT The said petition is signed by qualified voters of this County in excess of the number of one-third required by law; and that this said number is in excess of the one-third of the qualified voters of this County required to sign the petition, as provided by law; and that the said number of qualified voters have joined in the said petition to the County Court of this County and prayed for the change or removal of the County Seat from Washington, Arkansas, to Hope, Arkansas, in said County, and have embodied in the petition the designation and abstract of title and terms and conditions of the sale or donation, as provided by law; and that the Court is satisfied that a good and valid title can and will be made to the proposed new location; and that the abstract of title to the proposed location, as stated in the petition, does show a fee simple title to the property; and that the deed mentioned in the said petition is in all things as required by law; and that the place at which it is proposed to establish the County Seat is fully designated in the petition; and that said designation embraces a complete and intelligible description of the proposed location; and that each and every matter and allegation of the proposed location; and that the fact is as contained in the said petition; and that this Court has jurisdiction; and that this petition has been duly and properly filed in this Court; and that the said petition should be in all things granted; and that the Court should order an election to be held at the several voting places in this County, directing that the proposal of the petitioners for the change or removal shall be submitted to the qualified voters, as provided by law; and that the said election should be held as required by law on Saturday

Maybe Mr. Farley Didn't Lose Vote

Is Given Credit for Soothing Bitterness in the C. I. O. Ranks

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON.—And another thing, this James Aloysius Farley isn't chalked up here as being so inept politically as he appeared to be in picking one wrong horse in the Pennsylvania primary.

It is true that Jim Farley has a thick political hide, but his skull is quite another thing. Farley said he would like the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania to nominate Governor Earle for the Senate and then step to another party faction and nominate C. I. O.'s Kennedy for governor. It was a last minute notification of how the national chairman thought things ought to be, and report here has it that Farley took the step after many warring moments of thinking over what to do.

It turned out that Earle was nominated and Kennedy was beaten and the hue and cry arose that Farley had lost the magic touch by which he had been able to forecast that all but Maine and Vermont would vote for Roosevelt in 1936.

But a report here has it that Farley

Kidneys Must Eliminate Acids—Poisonous Waste

Or Backache—Smarting—Getting Up Nights—May Result

Kidney ailments won't wear away—you've got to help these delicate organs function properly again. It's the same way with bladder trouble.

Healthy Kidneys filter the acids and poisons and thru the bladder discharge them from the body.

Backache—getting up nights—moist palms—scanty high colored urine—are some of the symptoms.

Ask your druggist for a 35 cent box of safe, gentle Ramon's Brownie Pills for the Kidneys. Be sure you get Ramon's the original and genuine.

I am many Leaders Held as 'Fixer'

The most legendary and powerful political figure in New York, James J. Hines, virtual "boss-maker" of Tammany, faces charges as the alleged head of a $100,000,000 policy racket after his arrest by District Attorney Thomas Dewey. Hines, who was released on $20,000 bond, is pictured leaving police headquarters. The county grand jury will be asked to indict him for "influencing and intimidating judicial officers."

was not devoted to picking winners, nor even in supporting an out-and-out labor candidate against one less out-and-out. Farley is reputed here to be just average concerned about national politics and if the party goes a bit conservative or a bit liberal it is mostly all right with him so long as he can keep the party in power. About keeping the party peaceful and in power he is very much concerned.

Mr. Farley, as he himself indicated, picked Kennedy for public support on one side and Earle on the other because it would help to heal the breach within the party in Pennsylvania.

It May Help Later
It could be kept in mind that John L. Lewis, head man in C. I. O. was not especially mad at Earle, who had sided with him in the steel strikes, even if he was on the other party team. But Lewis was all for Kennedy, which Farley knew. So by giving Kennedy a lift, even late in the campaign, Farley helped to soothe the bitterness which could have grown up in C. I. O. ranks if no help had come from Washington. Moreover, the help extended in Pennsylvania would be remembered in other states where C. I. O. can be useful.

A disrupted party in Pennsylvania means danger in 1940 and any one with half an eye on things in Washington can discover that Mr. Farley is far more concerned about keeping the party together in 1940 than with what happens to a scattered handful of congressmen in 1938.
Mending breaches (Great Scott! what a daisy) is Farley's specialty and the day after the primary he was actively at work at it. Lewis and his Pennsylvania ally, Senator Guffey, had some dull hours together during a long afternoon following their defeat in the primary but there was no sulking in the tent for Farley. He sort of teased himself publicly about sticking his neck out by "picking" Kennedy but immediately assured the winning candidates that they would have full support of the national committee to beat the Republicans.

If Postman Doesn't Ring
Farley has had to heal breaches before and the prospects are that before the year is out he will have to try to heal several more as the primary fights come along.

His first job as national chairman in 1932 was to heal the breach growing out of the "Stop Roosevelt" movement in the national convention—and he did it.

It was not such tough going in the days of 1932 because the depression had dimmed Republican hopes to such an extent that some commentators suspected the Democrats could have elected a Moro, although that may be reaching a long way out.

But now the depression is on the other foot and if once in a while the mail doesn't come through on time it could be kept in mind that Postmaster General National Chairman Farley has something to do besides carry letters.

Big Gun Blasts—Camera Catches Shell in Flight

In this spectacular and unusual picture, an alert cameraman caught a shell from a big army gun in full flight (upper right-hand corner) a fraction of a second after the gun was fired. The photo was made as the 52nd Coast Artillery Regiment of the U. S. Army ended the regiment's encampment at Lewes, Del., with a three-day target practice using mobile railway rifles.

in city revenues which began in July of 1937. This decline was not enough to hold the 1937 total under 1936, but it is continuing and bodes no good for municipal finance in 1938.

Must Raise Money But Can't Raise Taxes

"The ability of cities to raise revenue is completely under the control of the state," Chatters emphasizes.

"Yet the cities face a financial problem complicated by rising labor and material costs, encroachment of state and federal governments on local revenue sources, tax limitation, homestead exemption and other tax exemption laws."

By mounting financial problems need two things.

First, an end to planless bating of the relief problem back and forth between city, county, state and federal governments, so that cities may know clearly what share of the relief burden they must carry.

Second, a system of relief administration that will place a premium on good administration instead of a prize for poor administration, which is often the way it works out in practice today.

Must Look Beyond 'The End of the Nose'

By the latter, Chatters means that when a city's relief program breaks down entirely, the state or federal government is forced to step in, and dumps outside funds into the city instead of making it necessary to raise them by local taxation. This eases the tax burden locally, but it is shortsighted ed and results in a chaos of administration like that which so many cities face at present.

Since it is almost too much to expect local city administrations to seek voluntarily any arrangement which would tend to put more of the relief burden on local taxes, Chatters believes the federal government should take the lead in seeking new relief arrangements whereby higher governments would contribute to a city relief situation a fixed sum. Then the additional amount the local administration would have to raise in taxes would depend on the efficiency of local administration of relief.

How Some States Are Handling Problem

The city relief problem, after dominating the 1937 sessions of the legislatures of 10 states, now has the almost exclusive attention of those of Louisiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio and Illinois.

In both the latter states, revision of the relations between state and city relief burdens and the extent of state control over city finance and taxation are under discussion. Neither Cleveland nor Chicago has yet been given by the state enough latitude in tax levying to permit them to meet their relief situations with special levies.

California is reimbursing counties for social security payments. Kansas has made an emergency welfare fund available to counties. Georgia has authorized its state welfare department to bear part of county welfare expenses. In New Jersey a waiver of municipal debt limits is being considered.

And in the meantime, new relationships between city, county and state are gradually being forged on the hard anvil of the relief crisis that faces most large American cities today.

Newspictures of Riots in the Rubber Capital

Firing heavy barrages of tear gas, Akron, O., police are pictured as they battled demonstrators in a riot at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in which more than 100 persons were injured. Faced with threat of further trouble, police were maintaining armed peace around the plant while union leaders talked of a general strike. Trouble at the Goodyear factory developed swiftly after the union had settled its six-day strike at the B. F. Goodrich Company. As union leaders called a meeting to announce that they were unable to obtain satisfactory answers to union grievances from the Goodyear company, reports arrived that the company was removing material from its plant and a huge crowd rushed to the factory to set up picket lines.

Flailing police nightsticks beat a veritable tattoo on the heads of rioting strikers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber plant in Akron as this picture was taken during the height of a three-hour battle which followed attempts by pickets to prevent a night shift from entering the plant. More than 100 persons, including several women, were injured in the riots, which police finally subdued to a point where an armed peace prevailed. Mayor Lee D. Schroy of Akron asked Governor Davey of Ohio to "stand ready" to send troops into the city, where a general strike was threatened.
